Senior Week Begins May 14 With Kid Day

Senior Week, an annual tradition at GSCW, will begin Wednesday, May 14, with Kid Day, followed by a party at Sanford that night. Mary Elizabeth Brantly will be in charge of the affairs for this day.

A picnic at Haddock's lake has been planned for Thursday with Joy Stamey as chairman.

Dottie Riviere is in charge of a picture show party which will be held Friday afternoon. That night the Seniors will entertain the Juniors with a party. At this party the Seniors will present the Juniors with the key to Sanford. Beth Hart and Anna Laura Rogers are chairmen for the evening's events.

The Junior-Senior dance will bring the week to a close Saturday night.

Sarah Jane Willison is general social chairman for the Senior class.

Chapel Programs

Friday, May 9 Mr. Norman Tant, Sparta High School, will be the speaker.

Monday, May 12, Mr. Earle Norman, lawyer, Washington, Ga., will be the speaker.

Friday, May 16, Judge S. Price Gilbert, member of the Board of Regents, will be the speaker.

Monday, May 19, The Rev. Waights Henry, from the North Georgia Conference, will speak.

Physical Education Majors Make Summer Plans

The physical education majors' plans for the summer include, besides working in their hometowns, going to summer school, and loafing, work in summer camps. Those girls going to camp are:

Agnes Davis, South Carolina, Orthopedes Camp or Camp Four-clinch, Deer Harbor, Wash.; Eulalia Webb, Camp Catechee, Brenard N.C.; Bert Hart, Doris Helton, and Polly Miller, Camp Highland, Smyrna, Ga.; Lonnie Morrison, Camp Mudjerevs, Center Louell, Maine; Dot Tompson, Barbara Jean Mann, Margaret Cox, and Frances Lewis, Camp Farwell, Newberry, Vt.; Lillian McDonald, Bag Cave Camp and Range, Cherokee, R. I.; Deedie Binion and Helen Newsome, Camp Carlyle, Hendersonville, N. C.; Happy Dowis, Ridgecrest Baptist Assembly, Ridgecrest, N. C.; Louise Moore and Shirley Pittchett, Camp Montreat, N.C.

Students Take Play To Dublin May 28

The play directing class with its student leader, Nada Street, will present a one act play "Star Struck," at the Dublin Naval Hospital May 28.

This play is the story of a happily married Hollywood wife who has her ups and downs trying to keep roving women away from her movie star husband.

The cast includes:

DeNoni Barber—Kitty Dane, wife of the movie actor; Marie Branon—Harriet Brown, the secretary; Marcelyn Palmer and Barbara Ingram—Marilyn Withers and Rosalie, two star struck girls; Wylene Edwards—Polly Pry, a columnist; Frances Lawson—Gilda Moth, "the other woman"; Hermice Daniel—Ada, the maid.

The various crews or the play have not been announced.

Miss Hancock To Give Senior Recital May 7

Sunny Hancock, Decatur, will render her voice recital, May 7, at 8 o'clock in Russell Auditorium. Frances E. Yarbrough will accompany her. The program includes:

I.
Bist du Bei Mir (Stand Thou Near By)—J. S. Bach

Moon Marketing—P. Weaver
Night and the Curtains Drawn—G. Farrata

The Cry of Rachel—M. Salten

GSCW To Have New Recreational Director

A new recreation director, who will sponsor week-end parties, social dances, trips to the lake, and like recreation, will be associated with the physical education department and Miss Ethel Adams, dean of women next year.

Working with the Recreation Association for a more effective activity program, she will have charge of movies, reading, and art. Tennis courts, bowling alleys, and all equipment will be under her supervision. She also will be in charge of Lake Laurel and Lake Burton, located in North Georgia.

Three applicants, one a former GSCW graduate, are being considered for this position.

Talented Chinese Student Enters GSCW Next Fall Under 'Y' Sponsorship

Miss Mary Bei-li Loh of Shanghai, China, will enter the junior class at GSCW next fall, it was officially announced here yesterday. She will come under the sponsorship of the Young Woman's Christian Association which is providing her with a scholarship of $300.

Miss Loh, who is now twenty years old, will complete her sophomore year at St. John's University in Shanghai this June where she has been studying in the field of education. She is a leader of the Christian Fellowship there and has served as a volunteer teacher in schools for adult education. Highly talented in music, she has a beautiful voice and plays the piano well.

Her father, Dr. K. Z. Loh, is General Secretary of the Metropolitan Y M C A, the largest in China, and is an alumnus of Yale in America and Oxford in England. She is the niece of Dr. Homer C. Loh, Executive Secretary of the National Student Relief Committee in Shanghai. He visited GSCW in 1942 when he spoke in behalf of the World Student Fund. It was through Dr. Loh and Mr. Henry T. Ware, secretary of the Southern Area Student Council of the Y M C A in Atlanta, that the YWCA here learned of Mary's desire to study in America.

St. John's University at which Miss Loh is now a student is one of the oldest and most reputable Christian universities in China. Miss Loh will be the fourth student to study at GSCW under the sponsorship of the YWCA.

Miss Alice Gewitsch of Austria, who came to GSCW in the spring of 1940 and graduated with an AB degree in social science in July of 1941, was the first. She is now Mrs. Ralph Morrone of Savannah, Georgia. Miss Gertrude Ehrlich of Germany entered the freshman class in the spring of 1941 and graduated with a BS degree in June of 1943. She has since that time received her MA degree from the University of North Carolina with a major in mathematics and is now teaching at Oglethorpe University in Atlanta.

Miss Ruth Marianne Singer, currently studying here at the college, is the third foreign student to receive scholarship aid. She was born in Breslau, Germany, and formerly resided in New York state. She is taking a divisional major in the social sciences and will complete work for her AB degree at the end of next fall quarter.

All funds for such scholarships provided by the YWCA are derived from the Annual Refugee Benefit Ball and through the sale of books at the "Y" secondhand bookstore in the YWCA Apartment.

Letter To The Students

Dear Students:

We have a job to do and promises to uphold. When we enthusiastically accepted the rule changes which are on trial for spring quarter, we also accepted the responsibility that goes with additional freedom.

The new rule changes were presented in a student body meeting and posted on each dormitory bulletin board. Evidently the new privileges are not appreciated because they are being abused by a few students. In the majority of the violations the students confess that they did not know the rule or just did not think. The rules are publicized and it is up to the individual to do the thinking. May I emphasize here that ignorance is no excuse. Putting the rules on trial basis is for the purpose of testing them to see if they could be used effectively next year. If they continue to be abused, we cannot expect to have them next year.

We sit in our rooms and complain about the rules. This complaining will not help the situation. The thing that will help is to use the freedom we now have in the right way, and prove that we are capable of accepting more.

Most students do not realize that each rule has a definite purpose and that the Student Council, not the faculty, suggests rules and the changes in rules. Therefore, we students together are responsible for the rules that we have.

By asking for more freedom, we are admitting that we are capable of using it correctly. Our job is to prove that we have that ability.

Sincerely, your friend

DORIS HELTON, President CGA

Dim Whims

Our school has many prospects for next year with the new officers which have been elected. Congratulations to all the girls and good luck for the coming year.

I have been wanting to ask Dean Adams if she ever found her car. On Parent's Day I found her walking up and down the street looking for it. It seems she had asked the garage to deliver the car to the campus and being there were so many other cars on campus that day she was unable to find hers.

Virginia Little seems to be having troubles these days also. One week-end recently she decided to go home and surprise everyone, but she was the one that got surprised. As she was on her way to Atlanta, Tommy was on his way to Milledgeville to surprise her. My, but don't these girls have their troubles.

I felt right sorry for LaVerne Womble who got up on Saturday morning at 6:30 and went over to the auditorium to carry out her duties as a Neophyte. When she arrived, half asleep, she found that Saturday morning was the one time the Alpha Psi Omega's were going to let the poor initiates sleep.

Catherine Luther looked quite cute the other day when I saw her going out of Atkinson over to Bell carrying a stuffed Panda bear. Or should I say she looked a little awkward.

The Child Guidance class did a very good turn for the day last Friday when they went out to Boys Training School to a party for the boys. They all seemed to have a good time, too.

Past And Present

Are you one of those persons at GSCW who feels that the regulations are too strict and have little or no value to the student body as a whole? If so, will you look with me at some of the rules enforced at GSCW a few years ago.

In 1935-36, smoking was a major offense, as was riding with men. Students were allowed only one week-end off campus a quarter. Eleven o'clock lights were observed in all dormitories. This same year, freshmen were cautioned to rise when upperclassmen entered the room. Also freshmen were restricted to one telegram and two special deliveries a month, and two letters a day. Packages were inspected by upperclassmen.

In 1937-38, freshmen were not allowed to have radios in their rooms. A few years later, freshmen could have radios when deemed advisable by dormitory court, the housemother, and the dean of women. Students were not allowed to attend Sunday movies under any circumstances. Attendance at all meals was compulsory "for health's sake."

In 1938-39, by special request of the pastor and with the approval of the president of the college, students could attend Sunday School and Young People's meetings.

Until a few years ago, students were not allowed to go to town on Saturday or Sunday afternoons.

Many other rules which seem just as restrictive as these when compared with our present rules may be found in old handbooks. After reviewing these regulations under which the student body of GSCW was once regulated, we can only be thankful for the limited restrictions under which we now live.

BUT we are in danger of losing many of our privileges unless we can prove our ability to accept responsibilities to the faculty committee and the student government. No one wants to lose the benefits which we receive from our present government, but if we prove untrustworthy and unreliable, that is indeed what faces us in the future. We can not expect to have fewer rules until we respect and adhere to those we now have.

SHALL WE RETURN TO THE GSCW OF THE PAST OR GO FORWARD TO A BETTER GSCW OF THE FUTURE? THE ANSWER IS UP TO US.

CRIME AND PUNISHMENT

by Dostoevsky

Reviewed by Suzanne Lennon

Against a gray, depressing background of poverty and mental depletion is starkly painted a subtle and powerful psychological study revolving around one incident... the members of the time-worn pawnshop keepers by Raskolnikov, a young student.

Desire for worldly possessions seemed to be the obvious reason for Raskolnikov's murdering the two old women, but there was a deeper, underlying purpose.

He told Sonia, his one companion in a miserable existence, that he did it because he wanted "to become a Napoleon"... "Anyone who is greatly daring is right in the eyes of the people. He who despises most things will be a law-giver among them and he who dares most of all will be most in the right."

Raskolnikov impresses one as being so vastly egotistic that he would rather risk losing his life than sink into the oblivion of mediocrity. Murder was merely his way of trying to prove to himself he could do and get by with things the average person could not.

Sonia's love for both Raskolnikov and her family was so strong she literally gave her life to make theirs more livable. Nevertheless, she is not greatly to be admired, because she did not have strength to stand up and fight against fate and used the pages of her Bible as a refuge.

My criticism of CRIME AND PUNISHMENT as a whole is that it plunges the reader's mind into a sort of dark misery and never quite brings it back to the light.

Now where did I put that safety pin??

The Colonnade Speaks

Only four more weeks until exams!

Summer vacation is on the way. We are amazed when we realize that spring quarter, 1947, is almost over. But are we ready for exams?

Spring fever always has a high fatality rate at GSCW, and this spring the malady has reached epidemic proportions. This statement is only another way of saying that we students, many of us, are using the lovely weather as our excuse to put off until next week what we should do today.

The first of every quarter is in reality a New Year—a time for making new resolutions. Often these resolutions concern such things like keeping up with school-work from day to day or not waiting until the last few days of the quarter to write a term paper.

The habit of procrastination is easy to acquire but difficult to overcome. We do not want it to become a GSCW institution. It is an accepted fact that the most unpleasant phase of writing a term paper or in preparing a book review is the thought of the work to be done. Time wasted in thinking about work could be used to do that work. And our new quarter's resolution would not be broken.

Those four weeks until exams seem like a long time now. They can be used for a long loaf followed by that inevitable mad scramble of last minute work, or they can be a period of organized study followed by a day or two of free time.

Which course will be yours?

We are especially proud of the recognition that members of our faculty have received in their respective fields.

Dr. Gertrude Manchester, head of the physical education department, has been elected a fellow to the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

Dr. Clyde Keeler, biology department, received a prize for the best research paper from the Association of Southeastern Biologists. His paper was entitled, "Modification of Brain and Endocrine Glands as an Explanation of Altered Behavior Trends in Cost-Character Mutant Strains of the Norway Rat."

There is no real assurance that Raskolnikov will be happy at the end of his seven year imprisonment. Rather than triumphing over his hardships, he merely becomes resigned to them.

Reading a Russian novel was a new experience for me. Dostoevsky had the ability to make his characters come alive... to make the reader sympathize with them even while they wallow in the misery they seem to enjoy in an odd sort of way.

THE COLONNADE

Lake Laurel — Tanner's Heaven

Have you asked anyone lately, "My dear, where did you ever get that wonderful suntan?" If you have, and if that one you asked replied casually, "Oh, it's just something I picked up out at Lake Laurel!"—beware.

There before you stands the personification of golden-brown innocence, speaking innocent words in a likewise innocent tone, but ah! It is a plot to do away with your very life, my friend, so be careful, for the fiendish mind in the beautiful body has devised for your benefit the Perfect Crime.

She knows that you will rush madly to join the crowd of merry-makers who are headed for a week-end of fun and relaxation. You will all pile into a bus which will take you to Lake Laurel, and, if someone does not mistake you for a blanket roll and sit on you, someone else will hand you four Cazen eggs and tell you, "There're going to be a few small bumps—can't break these."

After a few mishaps such as a few people being left, you start merrily on your way. Everyone is singing. Everyone is happy. A well-rounded person will do all and you're no exception. Oh, poor, poor you.

Soon the bus leaves the pavement and hits a dirt road, and here is where our story really begins. Remember, you're not to let the eggs break. It seems that the few small bumps have matured all and multiplied. But, that's all right because you wanted scrambling eggs, anyway.

It is not long before you arrive at your destination. Everyone piles out. Everyone is still singing; everyone is still happy and you are still not quite an exception.

Since it is night, you can't very well do anything about a suntan at the moment, so you dance or play bridge, and then go to bed. You sleep in your blue jeans to keep warm, and if you are sleeping three in a top bunk, you tie yourself to the bed posts to make sure that you wake up in the morning. Of course, if you sleep in the middle, this precaution is not necessary.

You rise early in the morning and go for a pre-breakfast swim. Cold, wasn't it? You wish that it would take the cooks longer than two minutes to fix breakfast so that you wouldn't have to get right out again like that. You tell em. Brrrr.

After breakfast, the diabolical plan begins to work. You trot out side into the bright sunshine blissfully unaware of the horrible future that lies ahead of you. Right away you hop into a boat, row out into the middle of the lake and tie yourself to a telephone pole. There you remain, slowly cooking on all sides until time to go to lunch.

After lunch, you have to wash dishes and gather up your blanket roll, so you are somewhat delayed in going out to commune with the rays of the sun. However, it's easy to make up for lost time. When you get back outside, you either go back out in a boat, lie stretched out in the sun, go swimming, or get into a bridge game. A well-rounded person will do all four and will probably do a little fishing.

When it's time to leave, you give yourself the once-over and decide that the day's efforts were for nothing. Why, you're not even pink. There's just no change at all. You arrive back on campus and are somewhat disappointed. No beautiful tan. No nothing. All you got was a good time.

But wait. The day is not done yet. It's time to go to bed and somehow you just feel miserable. Your skin has that dry, parched, feeling strangely reminiscent of peanut hulls. Your roommate turns out the light. At least, she pulls the switch, unplugs the socket and screws out the light bulb but somehow the light just doesn't go out.

Then comes realization, swift and sure. You, my dear, are sunburned. And you STAY sunburned a few years, and you sleep hung by the

Dr. Wynn Retires After 27 Years At GSCW

Dr. W. T. Wynn, who is retiring September 1, has been at GSCW in 1925. He came here as the head of the English Department from the State Teachers College in Murfreesboro, Tenn. Journalism was introduced into the curriculum of GSCW for the first time in 1925, and Dr. Wynn taught it from the time of his arrival until 1940. It was due to many of his efforts that we have our school paper, THE COLONNADE. He supervised the work of THE COLONNADE for a number of years. When we look back over our career, we realize how much we need to work on our paper in order for it to compare favorably with those of about 15 years ago.

In this same line of work, Dr. Wynn served as the sub-director of General Journalism Extension from 1935 until 1943, and he served as the publicity director for the college from 1926 until 1942. He was Dean of the College in Arts and Sciences from 1927 until 1933 also.

Dr. Wynn has published several books. Among these are: An English Grammar, Grammar Essentials, Grammar of the English Language, Readings in Georgia Literature, Southern Literature, and GSCW Book of Verse. He has tried to buy several of these books, but they have sold so well that he has met with no success.

After Dr. Wynn leaves GSCW, he school to which he has given a great deal of his life, he plans to fulfill his desire to travel and to write.

Gheisling Wins First In Contest April 26

Margaret Gheisling, president of the Baptist Student Union at GSCW, won first place in the East Central Regional tournament on April 26, for her talk on "Fellowship and My Leisure." Margaret will go to the State Speakers' Tournament at Mercer, June 12.

Forrest Lanier, ministerial student at Mercer, will speak on "Wordiness Out" at the Baptist Center on May 8. Everybody is invited to attend.

neck from the ceiling because that's the only way you're comfortable.

And that, my friend, is the end of you, so take my advice and when some lovely tanned damsel blithely mentions how she picked up her tan with no trouble at all, grab up your grandfather's heirloom sword that was used in the Spanish-American War and ride the world of the cruel creature.

Alpha Omega Yoe How To Sleep

Once upon an aeon ago, if you had been in the little university town of Oran on the southern boundary of Graustark, you would have seen a strange sight. In the dark and dismal little attic room at three men in deep thought.

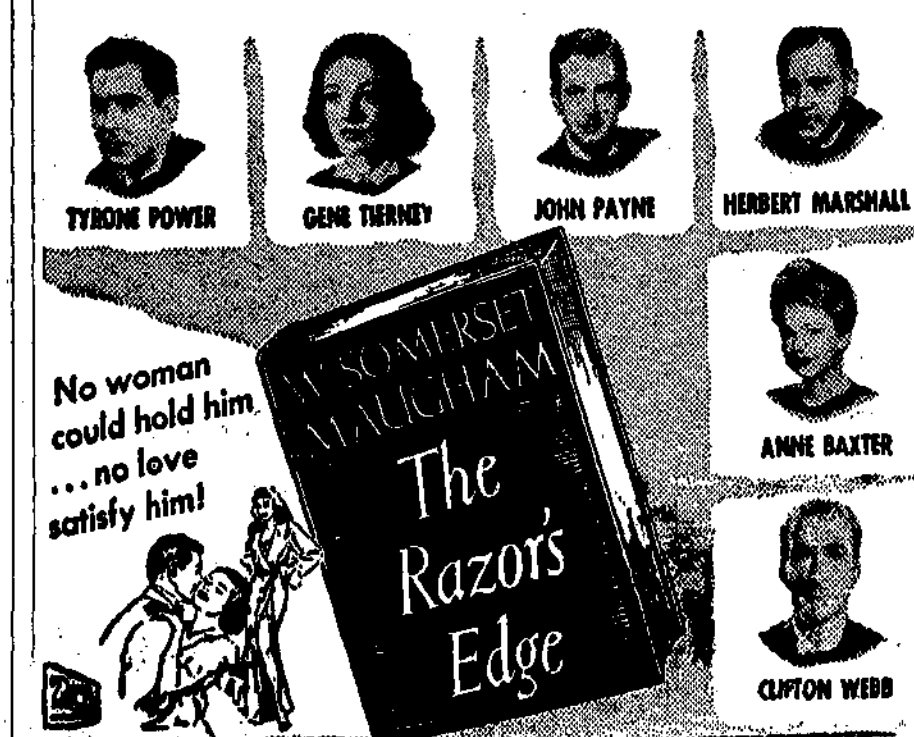

"But," said the first, stroking his beard and squinting his eyes, "it was the year 1000 B.B.—before Christ, 'this must be something more lasting—something eternal. It is to be our contribution to civilization—the things for which our lives have been lived.'"

"Yes," ejaculated the second, "you're right. The product of his meeting—our last—must be something to uplift humanity." "But," remonstrated the third, "he twirled his watch chain. 'Put up that anachronism!' shouted the first, giving him a vicious blow. 'I don't think you understand. Of course, our lives have not been fruitless. We've invented the mousetrap and a better mouse trap. We have frightened the Leaning Tower and discovered the coniform system. We've condemned the dangling modifier and improved the alpenstock. We've decimated the griffins but what of it? Now, it is must be something monumental that will never be forgotten.' 'Shall we invent?' queried the second. 'Or discover?' wheezed the third. 'No,' meditatively. 'I think we should lay the foundation for a Brave New World. We shall form a Society.'"

"...was born the Ancient and Honorable Order of Alpha Omega Yoe. That was long ago, but the time is not forgotten. The men who had hoped to leave a memorial to their philosophy were not disappointed. The Order has grown until today it is one of the wealthiest and most useful organizations in the world. But others have arisen to obscure it. Others, more exclusive, dedicated to the proposition that men are created equal, may secure its downfall, unless people awake to the danger. To defend anything intelligently, a person must first understand it. And it is further this understanding that this article is written. There is a class of people in the world that has no place. They suffer from psychic nostalgia, a sense of not belonging. They are those commonly known as 'B' students. These students are victims of two diametrically opposed groups. First, they are reviled and persecuted by those who, according to an arbitrary system of grading, are below them. For these people, they are the hated ones who help to raise the curve. But worse than the treatment of this group is the ridicule and pity of the 'A' students. What have they done to deserve such universal abuse? There are only two answers. One lies in the abolishing of grades as a measure of merit. The only alternative is a rebirth in strength of the Alpha Omega Yoe, the organization of those commonly known as 'B' students for the furthering of nothing.

Students Admitted To Salesmanship Class Phi Upsilon Omicron Tours Atlanta Stores

The Alpha Eta Chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, a national honorary society for home economics students, initiated into its order 19 members from the sophomore and junior classes on April 22.

The purpose of Phi Upsilon is to foster and develop the field of home economics and to promote friendship and understanding of its students. To become a member of Phi Upsilon, a student must be a home economics major, rank scholastically in the upper 25 percent of her class, and be considered one of the outstanding members of her class by both the faculty and students.

The following girls were initiated from the sophomore class:

Frances Bradley, Ann Carville, Nell Ray Chastain, Dorothy Ann Kennedy, Betty Lane, Mary Frances Lane, Dean McClure, Shirley Steel, Margaret Stovall, and Mary Nell Traylor.

Those from the junior class were:

Eliza Athos, Sara Carpenter, Clara Mae Hall, Elizabeth Ann Jackson, Vera Ann McElhannon, Evelyn Warren, Hilda Washburn, Sara Randolph of the class of '45 was also initiated.

Dr. Maude Pye Haad, district counselor, came down from the University of Georgia to inspect the chapter and to attend a reception which followed the initiation.

Alpha Psi Initiates Eight Neophytes

The initiation of eight neophytes by Alpha Psi Omega Club began Wednesday, April 20, at a pledge ceremony and will end at a formal initiation, May 7. The neophytes will become members of the Alpha Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic society, after the formal initiation.

Those being initiated include:

Barbara Harrison, Dot Mainor, Virginia Jolley, Rachel McCrea, Vera Ann McElhannon, Jean Whitmire, LaVonne Womble, and Joann Rainey.

The requirements for becoming a neophyte are:

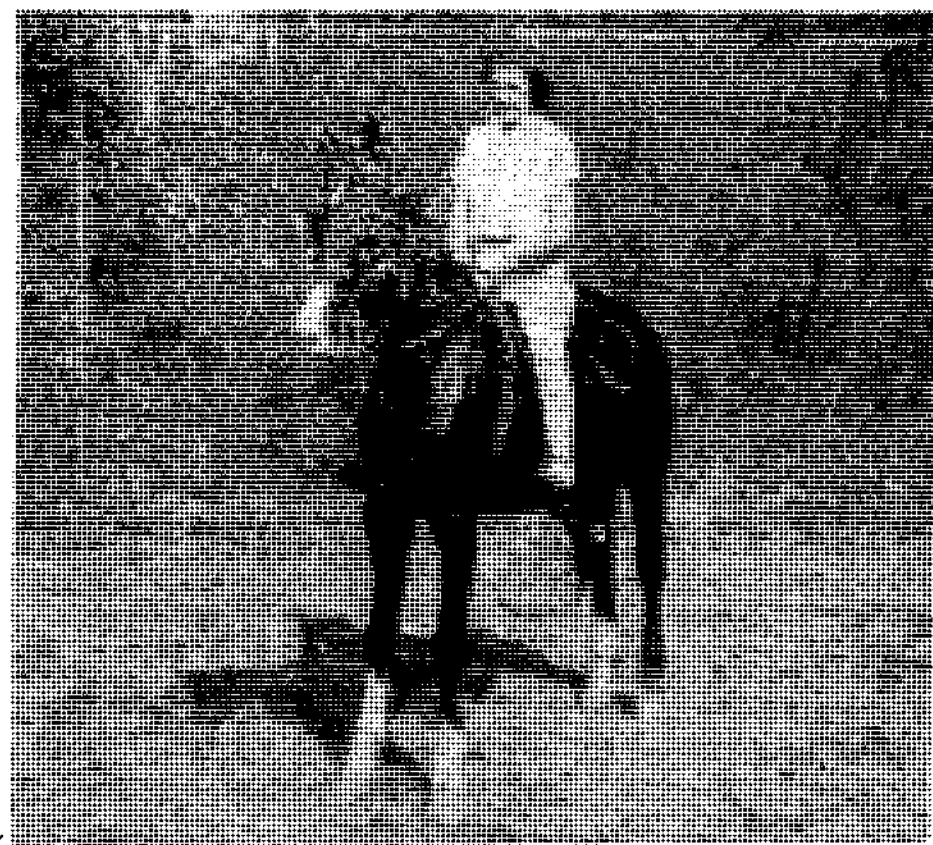

Act in one public performance of College Theatre; work on stage crew a minimum of 5 points; work on three other crews a minimum of 5 points each; head one crew.

Crew includes:

Stage, lights, publicity, make-up, house, props, sound, and costumes.

There will be no radio course offered this summer.

basement which propels the packages to the delivery department. These students also saw the little gasoline operated trucks which carry the merchandise from the receiving platform to the marking room. Students who toured Rich's were guests of the store for lunch in the Magnolia Room with Miss Holmes and Miss McMahon of the training department as hostesses.

Students going to Davison's were conducted on a similar tour by Miss Mock of the training department. They visited the sub-basement, receiving platform marking room, and the employees' cafeteria. One of the highlights of their tour was their visit to the tube room where they saw the cashiers making change and returning the tubes to the floors. This group of students had lunch in Davison's tearoom and saw the fashion show which featured summer sportswear.

In the afternoon the class met at Harper Hat Company on Pryor Street where they saw hats being made from straw imported from various countries. Students were allowed to try on any one of the assortment of hats. Mr. F. M. Zooser, president of the Harper Hat Company, then took them to visit an overall manufacturing company and to the Kay Garment Company.

Cement mixer and all these pledges at Evansville college turned out to widen a campus sidewalk as part of their pledging duties. All fraternities stress building the campus instead of other less valuable ceremonies.

It finally happened at Hobart college, Geneva, N. Y. During the school's "Open the Door Dance," Richard actually showed up and opened the door.

Chute, Cute

Latest fad at Ohio Wesleyan is weekend flying trips. Here John Barker helps Peg Culley into her chute before taking off on a formation flight to nearby Mansfield, Ohio.

Chinese students at Denison university study chemistry together, elated over having textbooks and apparatus. They transferred from Lingnan university, Canton, China. Stooping is Kai-yin Chav and standing is David Chu. The latter's father is doing research at the University of Pennsylvania.

"Be a bottle baby all your life, only just be sure you hit the right bottle," Kay Kyser—the Ole Professor—quipped in support of North Carolina's Good Health program during a recent visit to State college, Raleigh. Kyser even agreed to sport a State college pennant, despite his allegiance to his Alma Mater, the University of North Carolina.

Clean Politics

Election of "Dorm Duke," king of residence halls at the University of Wisconsin, depends on the amount of publicity a candidate can get—good or bad. A sure vote-getter is an early spring plunge in the icy waters of Lake Mendota. At right, Bill Lyneis tests the lifeline before jumping into the lake. Above, Frank Shular with soap in hand promises a "good, clean campaign." Stunts run the gamut from bands and banners to free beverages.

But He Won

Chuck Davey, Michigan State college 145-pounder, is the unhappy recipient of a right to the nose from Virginia's Willie Barnett. Despite the telling blow, Davey came back to win the bout.

One way of getting a house if not a home is shown by Lee Shiomano and Tex Gonzalez. They are both students at the University of Notre Dame architectural school.

When photographers tried to shoot a human interest picture at Butler university, Walter Hicks thought they made better subjects than the dog. The dog's owner even tried getting under the table to help.

Looking like the devil at Bowling Green State university's Beaux Arts ball were two faculty members, Miss Myra Minnis and Esko Rentala. Caesar and Cleopatra, in the persons of William Lieser and Patricia Imhoff, joined them in a discussion on the cool shortage.

All-male Washington and Lee university counts heavily on veterans' wives in the production of school plays. While the husbands play their parts as students, their wives take to the stage in the mock-restoration comedy, "And So to Bed."

GSCW Has Winners In Sports Day Events

GSCW competed "purely for fun" against 5 other Georgia colleges April 26 in four sports: tennis, swimming, soft ball, and volleyball.

Bert Hart of GSCW won first place in the tennis matches. Second place was a tie between Jo Wyckoff of the University of Georgia and Lile Long, also of the University. Dot Devin, Armstrong College, Savannah, won third place in the matches.

Claryce Sutton of GSCW was first place winner in the swimming event. Dorothy Bode, University of Georgia, won second, and Midge Lowell, of the University, and Jackie Hodges of GSCW tied for third place.

Volleyball and softball games were held as team sports competition with representatives from all of the colleges on color teams. The Pink and White team won first place.

Playnight was sponsored by three seniors, Dot Thompson, Agnes Moye, and Agnes Davis. Frances Lewis and Adele Rogers were co-chairmen for the day.

Finals

Preview of things to come is portrayed by James Ashworth, Eastern Illinois T.C., as he crams for final exams. A Navy vet, he is a pre-dentistry student.

That's All for a While...

Just as this smash finish marked the end of "Stunt Nite" at the University of New Hampshire, it is symbolic of "the end" of Collegiate Digest for this school year. The Digest staff wishes to thank all its many contributors who served as on the spot photographers covering campus events throughout the nation. Those interested in submitting pictures next year are advised to write to the Digest in September requesting publication dates.

Foundations In "Lost Week-End"

It was really "Lost Week-End" for thirty-three Wesley Foundationers Saturday night, April 26, and the recreation leaders were as lost as any of their followers.

The episode took place during the Wesley Foundation Retreat to Camp Joycliffe near Macon. Captain Buddy Highsmith and Jo Beth Porter, Mary Will Kicklighter, and Dot Callahan had planned a lantern hike as part of the week end fun. Early Saturday morning these leaders blazed the trail leaving pieces of Buddy Highsmith's wearing apparel as guideposts along the way.

But somehow when the hike was staged, the leaders lost their way and three times the group wound around the same mile-long mountain path. By this time "Mother" Barton's aches had become acute, and she suggested that the majority sit while the minority, (namely Don Castleberry and Buddy Highsmith), search for the way home. The motion was unanimously carried and the suggestion proved a successful one.

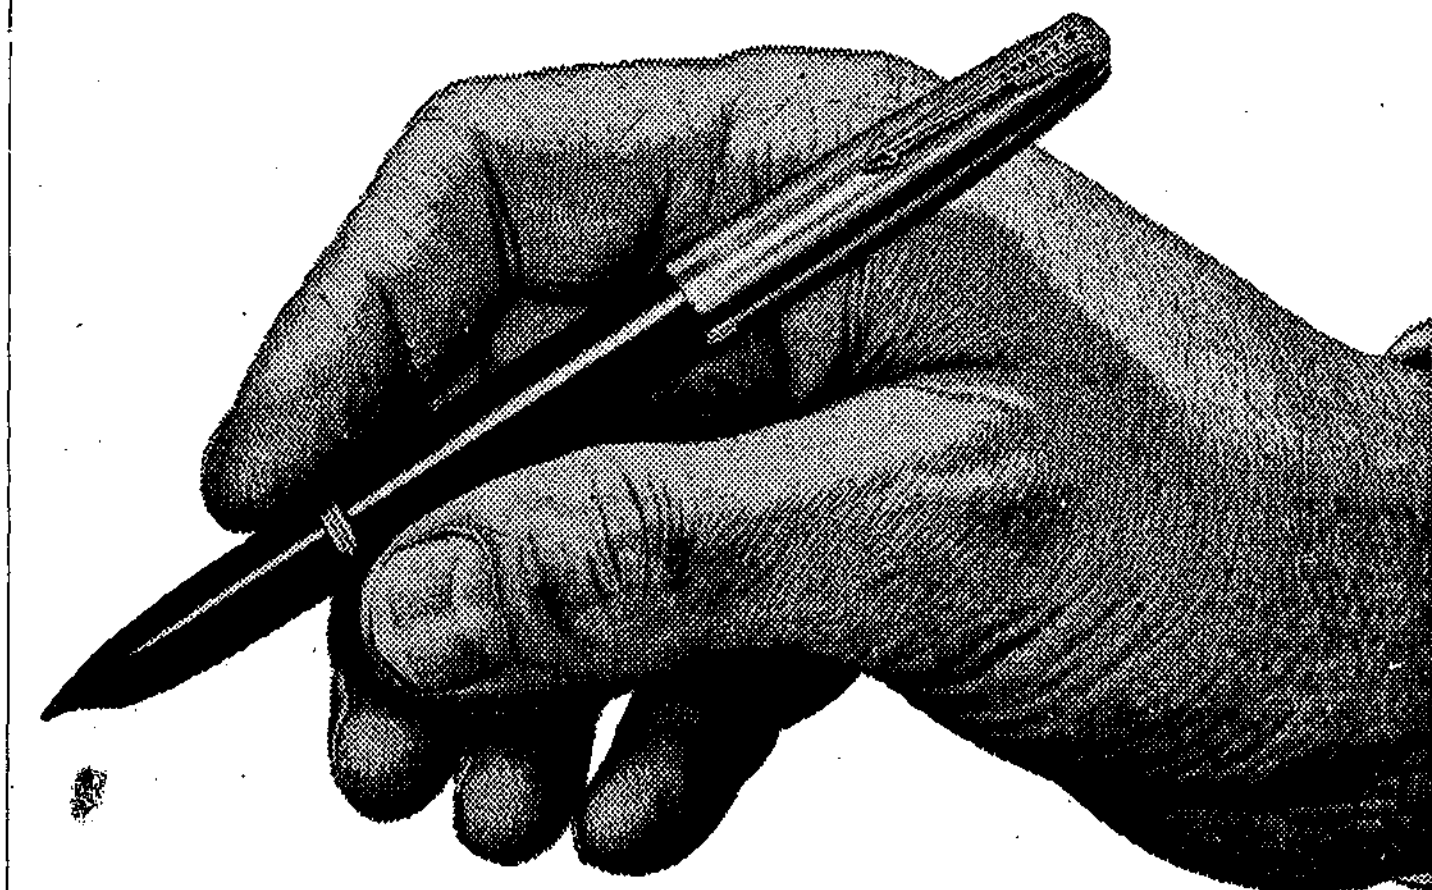

At 11:30 p.m., thirty-three tired people returned to camp. Night lamp lighter Perry had no trouble enforcing bedtime regulations. With the exception of one person talking in his sleep, all was quiet at midnight.

Indigestion! No Wonder!

Thank goodness! There's the whistle for supper—finally! I thought it would never blow. Gosh, this looks good! Steak, mashed potatoes and strawberries. It certainly is a pity that we can't take longer to eat. Girls, we have exactly 21 minutes to gulp down all we want. Wheel! Rolls and butter! And asparagus—I love it!

Yipes! We've only got six minutes left. Hurry! If you must finish that roll, Mamie, just bring it along with you. (Puff - puff) I'm exhausted! But we've just got to run. (Puff, puff) Thank heavens! We're finally

Mrs. McCullar will give an address at Sumner, Ga., May 30, and at Pineview, Ga., June 2. Miss Oris Glisson and Miss Rosaline Ivey will attend the spring conference of College Textiles and Clothing Teachers of the Eastern Region, May 7-10, at the Shoreham Hotel in Washington, D.C.

here! And just in time too. It's one minute to six, and we can still get in the show for a quarter!

"Y" Sends Deputation To Georgia Tech.

A "Y" deputation will go to Georgia Tech, May 7, to present a program on UNESCO. Girls going include Betty Eidson, to preside; Gretchen Waldrep and Edith Lewis, to speak; Minnie Alderman, to play the piano; and Mary Heaton, to sing.

The program was presented first at the Monday night vespers in Porter Auditorium.

Health Club Elects Officers for New Year

Nita Nesmith, sophomore, is the new president of the Health Club for next term. Other officers include:

Picnic plans are underway for the next meeting which will be held on Mrs. W. E. Ireland's lot at the Boys' Training School.

Dr. L. D. Haskew, Emory University, delivered an address and Dr. Guy H. Wells gave the charge to new members. A social in Beeson parlor followed the initiation.

Jean Bond Elected

The members of Phi Sigma, honorary society on campus, have elected their officers for the coming year. The new officers will be:

Jean Bond, president; Katherine

Executive Rec Board went on Rec Retreat last week-end, May 3 and 4 at Lake Laurel. They made big plans for next year so watch for them.

The Physical Education Club banquet May 1 was a big success. The theme was May Pole and miniature may poles were used for place cards. Miss Catherine Allan from the University of Tennessee was guest speaker and stories of her experiences as well as her accordion playing and singing were enjoyed by all.

Frances Lewis, a junior physical education major, was recently awarded the Rec Key. She is the first underclassman to receive this award.

The softball tournament has started. Each dormitory is urged to participate so get your teams together and watch for the time you're supposed to play. The games are fun to watch and everyone is invited. They'll be on Monday and Wednesday so come on out.

ine Kent, vice-president; Ruth Harrington, secretary and treasurer; Edith Harrington, publicity chairman.
